

A bounded trademark-opposition record

A primary-source orientation to priority, source identification, procedural timing, and the difference between evidence and inference.

STORY ANGLE

The public record separates verifiable dates from unresolved legal questions.

The strongest dates are independently checkable while the decisive legal conclusions remain unresolved. Each proposition is labeled as a record fact, a party position, or an open question.

QUICK READ

What the record shows

1. Public records identify a January 2022 commercial presentation and February 2022 paid transactions connected to RACERVERSE.
2. Mattel's application identifies a December 8, 2022 filing date for HOT WHEELS RACERVERSE.
3. The opposition is pending; docket entry 33 reset the schedule on September 17, 2026, with expert disclosures due October 13, discovery closing November 12, plaintiff's pretrial disclosures due December 27, and later testimony and briefing through August 24, 2027. This is a procedural schedule order, not a merits ruling, and public availability does not by itself establish access, confusion, intent, or damages.

The TTAB matter is pending. No final merits decision has issued.
